1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a review of the literature on the topic of the role of the state in the development of the economy. It is found that the state has played a significant role in the development of the economy in many countries, particularly in the case of developing countries. The state has been involved in the provision of infrastructure, the regulation of the economy, and the provision of social services. The role of the state has been particularly important in the case of countries that have experienced economic crises, where the state has been able to provide the necessary support to the economy.
